ERFORMANCE OF TONY AWARD' WINNER! BEST ACTRESS

Tuesday, July 1, 2008, 11:38 am

181523

Home > Talent Biographies

As Seen on 4NY

Today In New York

TINY Blog

Meet the News Team

TV Listings

Site Index

Home

Video

News

As Seen on 4NY

Most Popular Stories

Weather Forecast

Traffic Report

Entertainment

Sports News

Health Contests

Photo Gallery

Olympic Zone

Tribeca Film Festival

Politics

Green Is Universal

Community Events

Consumer News

Financial News

Search

Station

Brian Thompson

New Jersey Reporter, News 4 New York

Brian Thompson has served as New Jersey reporter for News 4 New York since 1998. Based at the station's New Jersey bureau in Moonachie, Thompson has broken many stories, including the news that then-New Jersey Gov. James McGreevey would resign in a sex scandal, a story that Thompson broke via phone while out of state. Two hours later, the governor went on national TV to announce what Thompson had first reported.

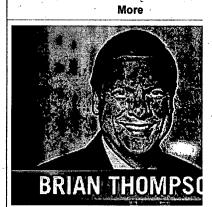

Later, it was the departure of McGreevey, and his replacement by acting Gov. Richard Codey, that led to one of the most significant stories of Thompson's career; a 45-minute s interview with the first lady and Gov. Codey regarding her life-long struggle with depression.

A year after Sept. 11, 2001, Thompson was the first and only reporter to listen to and air the New Jersey police recordings of the attack on the World Trade Center, a story later nominated for an Emmy-award.

> Additionally, Thompson was the only TV reporter prese New Jersey's first gay wedding and the first television re to report that State Police Superintendent Joseph Santi would resign. He was also the first to report that Frank Lautenberg would leave retirement to return to the U.S. Known for his tenacity and follow-through, Thompson p all-nighter to ensure full-coverage of a crucial legislative over a new state budget.

Having joined News 4 New York in 1996, a year later,

E-Mail Brian Thompson

Family

≜auSe@in 4NY

∓ggay In New York

HOUSE AND Home

Meet the News Team

Markietingee

Employment

Sitteut Wild BC

NB/04_ocal Media

Didital Tools

Newertise With Us

Warsadramiy Nour

Rest Popula Forestes

WeathWeddiesst

Other Lesson Rartners

Enstanteimment

Sports News

Health

Contests

Photo Gallery

Olympic Zone

Tribeca Film Festival

Politics

Green Is Universal

Community Events

Consumer News

Financial News

Family

Education

Food

House And Home

Travel

Marketplace

Employment
About WNBC

NBC Local Media

TIDO LOGA, MICAIC

Digital Tools

Advertise With Us

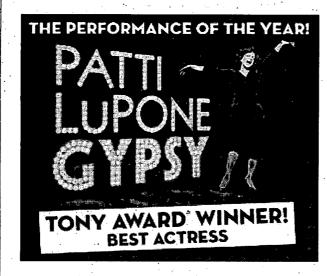

Win A Family Four

Pack To Six Flags!

"I Do" Weddings

Other Local Partners

Disable Flyout

Thompson was instrumental in WNBC's decision to car New York state's legislative debate on extending rent of for New York City, a story Thompson field anchored fro Albany.

Prior, Thompson worked for five years in Washington, I covering the White House, Capitol Hill, the Supreme Cofederal agencies for two dozen TV stations around the I During that time, he traveled to Normandy to report on I anniversary of the invasion, to Hawaii for the 50th anniv of the end of World War II, and to Bosnia-Herzogovina on the United State's involvement in the Balkan conflict than a month after the first U.S. troops entered that cou

Before that, he spent 17 years in Charlotte, N.C., cover among many stories, the political career of then-Sen. Je Helms while traveling around the world on various assignments.

In 2005, Thompson garnered a New York Emmy-award for his work on News 4 New York's political series "Whatters," has been cited five times by the Associated Press for Best Coverage by a New Jersey-based Corres and was given the first Environmental Journalism Award by the NY/NJ Baykeeper for a pair of reports on an ill development on the edge of New York's Harbor.

He began his career in radio, at stations in Charlotte, where he was news director at an all-news radio station, Gainesville, Fla., where he received a bacehlor's degree in broadcast journalism from the University of Florida

Thompson resides in New Jersey with his two children.

Click Here to e-mail Brian Thompson.

Related Articles:

Find out more about Media, Television, TV News Shows and U.S. Government.

- June 24, 2008: 'Grease' Actress Dody Goodman Dies
- May 22, 2008: Stanley Cup Finals Preview Detroit Vs. Pittsburgh
- May 16, 2008: John Marshall
- May 16, 2008: Janice Huff
- May 5, 2008: This Week In Golf May 8th Through May 11th

© 2008 by WNBC.com. All rights reserved. This material may not be published, broadcast, rewritten or redis

Links We Like

Look At New Home Prices Across The U.S.

Looking to buy a new home? Curious about prices in other cities? You can search listings of newly built homes, by price range or by U.S. city, online right now. More

Learn The Five Negotiation No-No's

You want a better salary and it's time to negotiate for one. Find out what not to do and get the deal that's best for you. More

Home Selling Tips

Get The Most For Your Money

Cut Your Electric Bills Painlessly

Choosing Shrubs For Your Yard

10 Tips For An Energy-Efficient Kitchen

30 Ways To Store More In Your Kitchen

Low Maintenance Gardens

What's Your Patio Furniture Style?

Learn To Love The Body You Have

Thompson goes deep

WNBC/Ch. 4's Brian Thompson recently did a piece on a stretch of water in New Jersey that is so polluted visitors are warned that eating just one crab could cause health problems.

So what does Thompson do? He dons waders and gets in the drink, of course.

Thompson said in an e-mail Thursday the point of doing such a standup is to "enhance the viewer's connection with the reporter's storytelling."

Sure, he noted, he could just as easily have stood in front of a green or blue Chroma Key with a picture of the river superimposed behind him.

"Instead, if I'm talking about recreational uses for this river, why not draw the viewer 'into' it with me?"

Thompson said that any standup is open to valid critique, but he added: "If we don't go in the water, does that also mean we should no longer walk through the burning embers of a tragic house fire, or take the viewer through the figurative and literal labyrinth of the desks of the state Senate chamber? Instead of driving behind the wheel to talk about toll hike impacts on motorists, do I just stand by the side of the road?

"In my book, you might as well bring on the Chroma Key."